

The Best Blazers For Women, According To Stylish, Successful Female Executives

A great blazer is a tasteful fashion flex—it elevates any outfit and commands attention. To determine the best women’s blazers, we reached out to driven, accomplished female executives, founders and CEOs to curate top picks for the office and beyond. A common thread among these options—from brands like Veronica Beard, Nili Lotan and Vince—is that they’re made with luxe fabrics, well-tailored and feature unique finishes and detailing that make them special.

These blazers can be worn with matching suiting, paired with denim or draped stylishly over your shoulders—and instead of being trendy and fleeting, stand the test of time. Whether you’re looking for a crepe style with movement, crisp wool in a year-round weave or a casual boyfriend blazer to scrunch at your elbows, there’s a style for every taste and preference. Here are the best women’s blazers of 2026.

Reiss: Separates And Suits With Impressive Range

REISS

Reiss Malin Single-Breasted Tailored Blazer

British fashion brand Reiss is known for stylish, classic pieces at a price that’s more palatable than many other luxury brands. The Malin blazer has a beautiful drape, and the less common color makes it a great option for summer months and warmer climates. “The one-button design and sharp lapels keep it classic; the cut is structured and flattering without feeling boxy; and the fabric is lightweight and breathable while still looking polished,” says board-certified plastic surgeon Dr. Elise Min, who has a very similar version of this blazer in pink linen. “Sometimes I want something expressive while still staying within a professional, feminine vibe, and this blazer strikes that balance perfectly.”
